

I have been disappointed with the traditional radio service and quality for several years. When I found out about XM, I jumped at the chance for satellite quality sound and several choices of stations that aren't available in my local area. We now get traffic and weather reports that are extremely convenient since I no longer have a traditional antenna to access obsolete FM or AM stations. I pay for this service and deserve to listen to whatever I like. Please leave our rights alone and if you have a problem with the success of satellite radio, then improve FM and AM... don't squash progress!
